

LIBRARYSEARCH

Using LIBRARYSEARCH
to find a journal title

To check whether the Library holds a journal in print or online, go to the Library home page, click on the Journals tab and type in the title of the journal. For example this is a search for the journal 'Gender and society'.

The screenshot shows the 'Search the library' page. At the top, there are navigation tabs: 'LibrarySearch', 'Books', 'Journals' (highlighted with a blue circle), 'Databases', 'Reading lists', and 'Library website'. Below the tabs is a search bar with the text 'LibrarySearch' and a yellow 'Search' button with a magnifying glass icon.

Note that you can also look for journals through the main LibrarySearch tab, but this will also find books and other resources with the same title. This can be a problem if you're searching for a journal with a brief title, for example 'Cities'. To restrict your results to just journals, scroll down the Search Tools box on the left of the screen. Look for the Format option and tick the box next to Journal, magazine.

The screenshot shows the 'Format' section of the search tools. It has a dropdown arrow and the title 'Format'. There are three options: 'All Formats' (unchecked), 'Journal, magazine (175587)' (checked and highlighted with a blue circle), and 'eJournal/eMagazine (21479)' (unchecked).

The results screen will show whether the journal you need is held by Oxford Brookes Library and, if so, it will usually be near the top of the list.

If you click on the green Access journal button you will be taken straight to the journal on one of our databases. However this may not include the year you need. We recommend you click on the blue journal title link instead as this allows you to see if the journal is provided through several databases. You can then choose the one which covers the year you require.

The screenshot shows a search result for 'Gender & society : official publication of Sociologists for Women in Society.'. The title is highlighted with a blue circle. Below the title, it says 'by Sociologists for Women in Society_(LLS.)'. There is a document icon, a red book icon, and the text 'eJournal/eMagazine 1987 | View all editions & formats'. Below that, it says 'Held by: Oxford Brookes University'. At the bottom, there is a green 'Access journal' button with an external link icon.

LibrarySearch shows us that we have online access to 'Gender and society' through two databases: JSTOR and SAGE and gives us details of the coverage of each.

Choose the database which covers the year you want and click on the appropriate Access journal link to connect to it.

Log in when prompted with your Brookes username (student/staff number) and password. You should then be able to browse or search through back issues of the e-journal.
