Dear George,

Thank you for your letter of 9th January and the tentative draft. I think it is splendid and I hope Mark uses it. Charles and I are trying to cook up a little speech about Bookers and one or other of us will probably be ringing you about it. We also thought it might be a good idea if we (you, Charles and I) had lunch together on Thursday, then we could run over any final thoughts. We can also discuss the rest of Ross's letter. As you will see, I have written a note to him along the lines we discussed.

Jasmine will arrange for your expenses to be refunded to you.

Look forward to seeing you at 12.45 p.m. at the Ritz on Wednesday.

Yours ever,

(J.N. Murphy)
