

About The Project

The People's Plans team brings together artists, planners and historians from 5 universities with support from the Town and Country Planning Association, an advisory group of community planners and funding from the Arts and Humanities Research Council.

Hidden from history

Examples of community-led planning are often short-lived and scattered. As a result they are hidden from history.

Bringing to light

We have brought this history to light by gathering archive material from cupboards, lofts and libraries and by talking to people and visiting projects.

Workshops and events

We have held workshops and events which bring people together to discuss the past and its relevance for today.
