

How to find academic (peer reviewed) journal articles in EconLit

Connect to EconLit through our moodle database course, Library Information Sources for Business Students or via our Business, Marketing and Economics library home page. If you are not already logged in, you will be asked to enter your Brookes username and password.

1. From the EconLit home page type in your keyword/s for your search. Add quotation marks around two or more words if you want to search for them as a phrase.

The screenshot shows the EconLit search interface. The search bar contains the text "financial crisis". A pink box with an arrow points to the search bar with the text "Type in your keyword/s". Another pink box with an arrow points to the "Search" button with the text "Add quotation marks around two or more words if you want to search for them as a phrase." The interface includes various filters and options like "Search modes", "Limit your results", and "Apply related words".

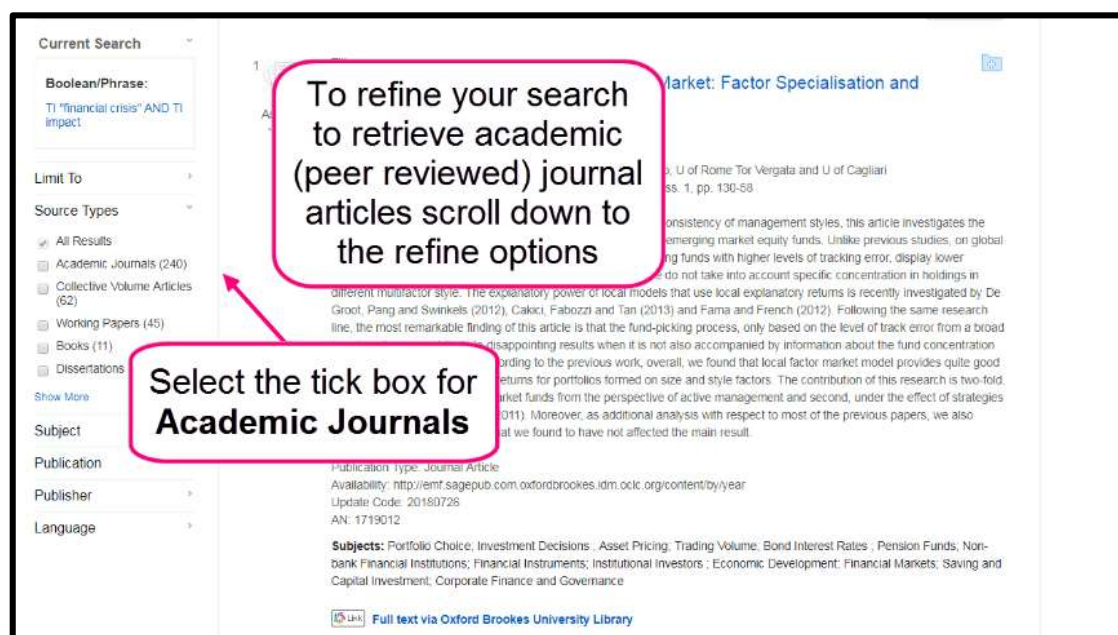

2. From the drop-down menu you have the option to Select a Field. For example, by selecting TI Title, EconLit will retrieve items that contain "financial crisis" in the title.

The screenshot shows the EconLit search interface with the "Select a Field (optional)" dropdown menu open. The menu lists various search fields, with "TI Title" highlighted. A pink box with an arrow points to the dropdown menu with the text "From the drop-down menu you have the option to Select a Field". Another pink box with an arrow points to the "TI Title" option with the text "For example, by selecting TI Title, EconLit will retrieve items that contain 'financial crisis' in the title". The interface includes various filters and options like "Search modes", "Limit your results", and "Apply related words".

3. You also have the option to include additional keywords in your search (e.g. impact).

4. To refine your search to retrieve academic (peer reviewed) journal articles scroll down to the refine options. Select the tick box for Academic Journals.

5. Academic Journals has been added to our search criteria.

The screenshot shows the EconLit search results page. On the left sidebar, under 'Current Search', the 'Source Types' section is expanded, and 'Academic Journals' is selected with a checkmark. A pink callout box with an arrow points to this selection, containing the text: 'Academic Journals has been added to our search criteria'. The main search results area displays a single result titled 'Fund Manager Performance in Emerging Market: Factor Specialisation and Financial Crisis Impact' by Villerbo, U of Rome Tor Vergata and U of Cagliari. The result includes the journal title 'Academic Journal', volume and issue information, and a brief abstract. At the bottom of the result, there is a link to 'Full text via Oxford Brookes University Library'.

6. To further refine your search by date range select Limit To.

This screenshot is identical to the one above, showing the same search results for the article 'Fund Manager Performance in Emerging Market: Factor Specialisation and Financial Crisis Impact'. However, a pink callout box with an arrow points to the 'Limit To' section in the left sidebar. The callout box contains the text: 'To further refine your search by date range select Limit To'. The 'Limit To' section is currently empty, indicating that no date range has been applied yet.

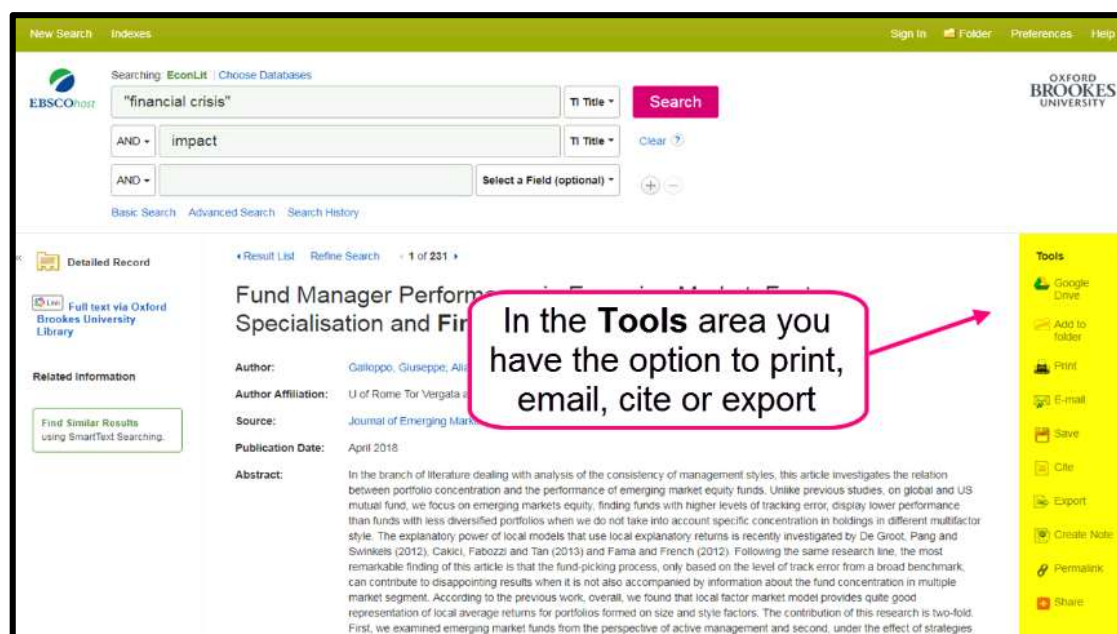

7. Not all articles will be available, but if we have access to an article you will see the Full text via Oxford Brookes University Library link.

The screenshot shows the EconLit search results page. On the left, there is a sidebar with search filters: 'Current Search', 'Boolean/Phrase' (TI "financial crisis" AND TI Impact), 'Limiters' (Published Date: 20000101-20181231, Source Types: Academic Journals), and 'Limit To' (Date range 2000-2018). The main content area displays the article details for 'Fund Manager Performance in Emerging Market: Factor Specialisation and Financial Crisis Impact' by Galloppo, Giuseppe; Aliano, Mauro. It includes the author affiliation, source (Journal of Emerging Market Finance), and publication date (April 2016). A pink callout box with the text 'Not all articles will be available, but if we have access to an article you will see the Full text via Oxford Brookes University Library link' points to the 'Full text via Oxford Brookes University Library' link at the bottom of the article entry.

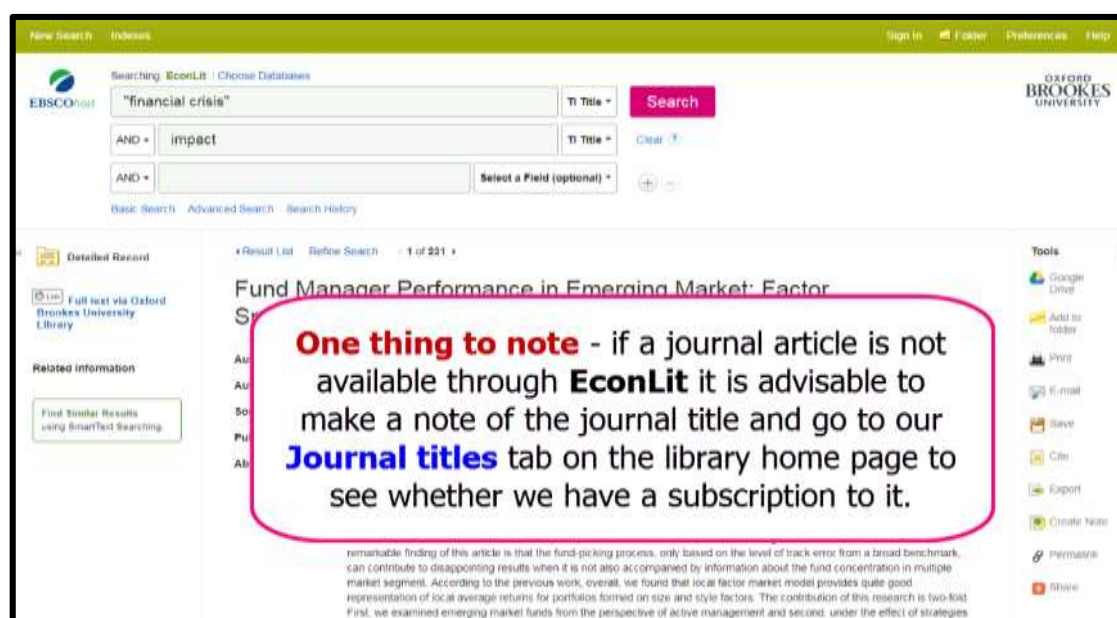

8. Click on the link to access article

This is a close-up screenshot of the article details section from the previous image. It shows the ISSN (09726527), Publication Type (Journal Article), Availability (http://emf.sagepub.com.oxfordbrookes.idm.oclc.org/content/by/year), Update Code (20180726), and AN (1719012). The 'Subjects' field lists various topics including Portfolio Choice, Investment Decisions, Asset Pricing, Trading Volume, Bond Interest Rates, Pension Funds, Non-bank Financial Institutions, Financial Instruments, Institutional Investors, Economic Development, Financial Markets, Saving and Capital Investment, Corporate Finance and Governance. A pink callout box with the text 'Click on the link' points to the 'Full text via Oxford Brookes University Library' link at the bottom.

9. In the Tools area you have the option to print, email, cite or export.

10. One thing to note – if a journal article is not available through EconLit it is advisable to make a note of the journal title and go to our Journal titles tab on the library home page to see whether we have a subscription to it.

If you need further help using EconLit please contact the business librarians at businesslibrarians@brookes.ac.uk or on 01865 485851. Alternatively, please feel free to drop in and speak to us.